Your concept

(in no more than 100 words)

I imagine that majority of Singapore's hawker centres in the future will be replaced by vending machines. Instead of hawkers selling food at their stalls, it will be replaced by rows of vending machines. In this way, buying food will be more efficient and convenient in our fast paced society.

Your concept

(On no more than 100 words)

The future Singapore I can think of has solar panels on all the buildings and transport. It will also have robots everywhere to make life easier. The robots can help to maintain cleanliness, alert the police/fire and rescue in case of any emergencies. There also will be machines everywhere where you can put plastic inside the machines and it will be made into other things.

Your concept

(in no more than 100 words)

In the future, we will definitely be overruled by technology. AI (Artificial Intelligence) robots will replace human's jobs, such as ice cream jobs, cashier's jobs and many others. My drawing shows a ice cream stall operated by a robot. Robots are programmed, they're different from humans. Humans will give discounts and can joke with customers. Which service would you prefer? A plain face staring at you or a humorous environment around you? Perhaps in the future, rocket shoes will be invented. Who knows. Technology might change the world.

Your concept

(in no more than 100 words)

Similar to the facial recognition on smart phones, imagine how cool it would be to have such technology around for access to rooms, cars, work places, rather than the old rusty keys.

Cut along the edges.

Your concept
(in no more than 100 words)

As technology has improved over the years, Singapore's traditions have not changed. Robots are seen helping senior citizens, tourists and customers in the social world. I used colour pencils, pens, markers and a pen in my artwork.

Your concept

(on no more than 100 words)

SAVE Our FUTURE

It's about time to save our future. The temperature is rising and ice is melting. That's not funny. One day we may have to move to space. We must save our earth, our home and our future!

Your concept

(in no more than 100 words)

I am sure that each and everyday something will change in our lives, but I know something will remain the same. It is the harmony we have between the four different races, harmony is something I know we will forever have.
